Integrated Payment Innovations:
Implications for Physician Alignment Strategies

Tuesday, March 16, 2010 • 12:00 pm - 1:00 pm EST

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The program will provide an overview of the healthcare innovations that are most expected to impact hospitals and their physicians. Many responses to the need for “bending the cost curve” are still with us in spite of the impediments to significant federal legislation. Health reform will have many implications, a major one being how physicians and hospitals opt to work together and the increased demands placed on planning resources.

This session will cover:

- The continuum of physician-hospital alignment strategies
- An overview of integrated payment models, including a description of bundled payments, medical home, and accountable health organizations
- An understanding of how these innovations will impact physician-hospital alignment strategies and how hospitals should be planning for this new era

SPEAKER:

Daniel M. Grauman, President and CEO at DGA Partners, has assisted hospitals, contracting organizations, health plans and other healthcare businesses throughout the nation. Mr. Grauman has almost 30 years of consulting experience in the healthcare industry and has been instrumental in the development and implementation of many physician hospital alignment strategies for DGA’s clients. DGA Partners is a leading healthcare management and data consulting firm with functional expertise in the areas of strategy, finance, managed care and data analytics. DGA seeks to bring technical expertise and business analysis to the wide range of needs and contexts in which hospitals and physicians work together.
